FLORIAN was asked by UPRILL in January 1961, what is the purpose of this kind of operation? FLORIAN said he did not know. I said that STUMM must know, and UJEDOMSY must have some idea; and UJEDOMSY must have said the operation to STUMM. Therefore, what does UJEDOMSY tell STUMM the purpose of the operation is? FLORIAN said that this really was a "shocking situation". UJEDOMSY's stated purpose is a) keep the Soviets occupied with this case and they will not bother us (UPRILL) elsewhere, ergo b) we will always know what the Soviets are doing against us. I had to admit that this was shocking alright. FLORIAN said this was an old UJEDOMSY pitch. He used it in the KLEIN case. He is also using it in the STUMM case. This indicates my STUMM would never fall for the purpose of UJEDOMSY. He has sold a bill of goods to UJEDOMSY. He got something out of it, undoubtedly. I don't know what.

FLORIAN's conversation with BERNHARDT and FLORIAN. FLORIAN said that most prior coordination, to the BERNHARDT had both had telephone conversations with UJEDOMSY the previous day on the subject of UNNOTLET. FLORIAN said the conversation with BERNHARDT had been general. FLORIAN had gone into more detail in his conversation, had played the part of a very interested, but rather naive front-office type, and UJEDOMSY had gone into great detail in explaining his theory of the operation and where it was going. Both telephone calls had been recorded. FLORIAN added that the previous night he and BERNHARDT had gotten together and played back the conversations -- with one interesting result: they noticed that in the course of both conversations, when certain words had been mentioned, UJEDOMSY had had difficulty in suppressing a small chuckle. Three words which always seemed to get a bemused reaction from UJEDOMSY were: "Spielmaterial", "Landesverrat", and "Unterschen". FLORIAN said UJEDOMSY, most pronounced chuckle had been apparent when FLORIAN made the statement that any "Spielmaterial" on UPRILL had to be cleared by "TILLY" personally. FLORIAN noted this all could be contrived, or it might be possible UJEDOMSY merely had been enjoying the thought that he was such a clever fellow that he could discuss treason with the likes of BERNHARDT and FLORIAN without their realizing they were talking to a traitor.

WARRICK (JAIL NUMBER) [] Section Report, 18 October 1961

1. WARRICK issued no photograph of "Harris", the person seen entering the prison in Hanoi. "Harris" bore a striking resemblance to KENNEDY. WARRICK has been unable to identify him but they know he was in Hanoi "near journalistic cover during the 1960 summer Olympics and also knew that he was in Vietnam from 1-10 September 1961. WARRICK asked that we try to identify "Harris".

2. WARRICK stated that when "Harris" first met the WARRICK in Hanoi, the WARRICK stated he would deal with no deals and was only with "Harris" team. After the plane for work in Hanoi and Paris fell through, "Harris" met the WARRICK in Vietnam in September 1961 and stated that he was the boss and that he was willing to offer the WARRICK money, eventual safe haven, all material wants, anything for his cooperation. The WARRICK (no pay indicated to us) stated (per his legend) that he was an interrogator in a beta and that he had been a member of OV 1 and had been so badly burned in the blow up of 1 that he had never since been in a discriminate or in the hospital. He stated all he could furnish the KID on was the activities of the beta, the person working and described those and the occasional WARRICK who traveled to the beta in connection with a particular laboring or detective. He stated further that this was certainly of no interest to the Baylors and, particularly, his knowledge of OV 1 was of little or no value since this was all known, and, in fact, had appeared in the press book. "Harris" allegedly stated that there were no circumstances in the Hanoi and that the WARRICK could never work with him or with the Hanoi and that he was not willing to pay the WARRICK a ransom for his release. They were willing to pay the WARRICK a ransom price for any amount of information he could furnish them.

3. The WARRICK accepted recruitment on this basis. He was given a tablet with two pages prepared as a/N coupons. He was further given a dagger and a letter to carry back home with him to provide with. He developed the letter (which was written in Russian which he deciphered at the time he could not read) and found that the a/N consisted of number groups for which he, of course, had no key. His first consideration to the KID, then, was a rather striking letter stating that the personal risk he took in bringing in the a/N materials and the letters into the National Republic did not seem to have been justified by developments to date. He stated further that he had not understood the background from the KID and that he was not willing to accept the situation. And that is what the KID made.
